1. At a meeting in Zossen on 16 July 1953, the local leaders of the Gesellschaft fuer Sport und Technik (Association for Sports and Engineering) were instructed to resume their previous training schedules which were still in force and included political indoctrination, premilitary training, marksmanship training, radio training, technical training and driving school and gliding. It was pointed out that the training program not be discussed in public and be conducted at remote places. The insignia hitherto worn on the left sleeves and the motorcycle pennants were scheduled to be removed.<sup>1</sup>
